

SILENCE TO BE BROKEN; WILSON TO GIVE IDEAS

Ex-President Will Discuss International Affairs. Keeps In Touch With Constructive Criticism Of Reparations Situation Made.

Washington, May 9.—Former President Woodrow Wilson will soon break the silence which he has maintained since his departure from the White House on March 4 and will enter into the discussion of international affairs.

This is the belief of persons closely connected with the former administration expressed today and it is based upon a close scrutiny of Mr. Wilson's activities since he became a private citizen.

It is known that Mr. Wilson is doing some writing, "scribbling" as he calls it, the nature of which he has not disclosed to even his most intimate friends.

It is also known that he is keeping in the closest possible touch with the international situation. A frequent visitor to the Wilson residence is Norman H. Davis, former under-secretary of state and a member of the reparations commission at the Paris peace conference, Bernard M. Baruch of New York, who headed the American representatives on the reparations commission and who was responsible in a large measure for the economic clauses of the Versailles treaty has come to Washington and consulted with Mr. Wilson on more than one occasion. Another frequent visitor has been Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, Joseph P. Tumulty, former secretary to the president, is an almost daily visitor. Mr. Tumulty has kept what he has termed a "yellow journal" of editorial comment since he entered upon his secretarial duties more than eight years ago.

"LUCKY STAR" STILL FOLLOWS WILSON

Washington, May 9.—Friends of former President Woodrow Wilson still believe in what they call his "lucky star." It was learned that during the last week a new touring car which was recently delivered to Mr. Wilson was almost demolished in collision with a heavy truck. Neither Mr. or Mrs. Wilson was in the car at the time. The chauffeur, who had escaped injury despite the fact that the body of the car was completely smashed.

Judging from the men whom the former president has been conferring it is believed that Mr. Wilson is preparing what may be termed a "constructive criticism" of the reparations situation. How this will be offered to the world Mr. Wilson has not disclosed.

Improving In Health.
The former president is slowly improving in health. The improvement is not recorded so much in his appearance as in his voice. People who have talked with him recently say his voice has returned to its old time vigor and resonance and that he would be perfectly capable of delivering a public address at this time. There is an almost daily appeal for Mr. Wilson to make speeches at lectures but to all he has turned a deaf ear.

The daily routine of Mr. Wilson since he left the White House has changed but little from that practiced during the last year of his administration. He rises early and partakes of a hearty breakfast. Afterwards he devotes an hour or more to the daily papers reading with the keenest interest all news matter from international politics to sports. Then comes his task of the day, the handling of his correspondence which is even heavier than when he was in the White House. Mr. Wilson employs a male stenographer who comes to the house daily at prescribed hours.

With the mail out of the way, Mr. Wilson still continues his habit of a "clean desk"—he enjoys an hour or more in the charming garden which is a feature of his new home, if the day is pleasant, otherwise he sits in a glass enclosed porch which leads into the garden.

Then comes luncheon followed by the siesta and an auto drive along what he terms his "regulation routes" through the parks and suburbs of Washington.

It is at a time that the Wilson ménage ordinarily offers its hospitality and there are frequent visitors at this time.

Between tea time and dinner, which is usually served at 7 and after dinner, Mr. Wilson devotes some time to what he terms his "scribbling." The former president is usually in bed about 11 o'clock.

The Wilsons have made no plans for the summer and their friends believe that it will be passed in Washington.

SPLIT IN RANKS OF STREET CAR UNION OCCURS IN AKRON

Break Comes Over Arbitration Question Concerning Strike.

Akron, O., Jan. 9.—A split in the ranks of the street car men over the arbitration question was announced early this morning following a meeting in Cuyahoga Falls which included the men who operate the interurban cars between Akron and Cleveland. About 150 men were represented at the meeting and voted to renew arbitration of the wage reduction.

It is understood that other branches of the union will vote today at secret meetings on the question of resuming negotiations. This action followed the pronouncement from President Mahon of the Amalgamated Association of Street Car men declaring the strike inaugurated on the company's lines last week tying up all traffic on hundreds of miles of road, outlawed and not in accord with union instructions.

It is understood today that Patrick Shea, of the international board has informed the men that under the present strike, no benefits can be paid.

Officials of the Northern Ohio Traction Company today reiterated their statement that no new basis of arbitration will be offered and that the company will stand on its 15 percent reduction in pay.

"Reds" At Work In Ruhr District To Foment Riots

They distributed circulars today urging the workers to flood the coal mines if the French troops march into the district upon the expiration of the allied ultimatum Thursday morning. The billeting of the French reinforcements from Paris has been completed.

ANSWER IS MADE TO VERBAL ATTACKS

Morey denied that Dr. Russell violated any professional confidences or ethics when he told the court that Mrs. Stillman, while under his treatment in 1918, informed him that Fred Beauvais and not Mr. Stillman was the father of her expected child. Morey declared that the doctor was compelled by the court to testify.

The statement issued after consultation with Dr. Russell, was made by Mr. Morey.

Virtual State of War Exists In Upper Silesia, Heavy Fighting Takes Place

POLES DESPERATELY BATTLE FORCES OF ALLIES IN THEATER

One Thousand German Military Policemen Sent In.

Berlin, May 9.—A virtual state of war exists in Upper Silesia today, with heavy fighting raging at many points between the Poles on one side and allied troops and Germans on the other.

About 1,000 German military police men have been sent into the Upper Silesian theater hostilities, but the reichswehr have not yet been ordered to the scene.

Following the capture of Kreuzberg by Germans, it was reported from that city that wounded Polish insurgents who had been taken to the Pitschen hospital after capture, admitted that they belonged to the sixth and thirteenth battalions of the regular Polish army which has been sent into Upper Silesia to assist the insurgents.

There are now between 25,000 and 30,000 allied troops in Upper Silesia, but the French are making little if any opposition to the advance of the Poles, according to information from Berlin.

The Poles have fortified the positions and established bridge heads along the Oder river "front."

OUTLOOK GLOOMY FOR SETTLEMENT OF MARINE STRIKE

Counter Proposals Will Be Offered It Is Believed.

Washington, May 9.—The present outlook for settlement of the marine strike is "unfavorable" according to Thomas Healy who returned here today from New York as head of a committee of marine workers to confer with Secretary of Labor Davis.

The committee of marine workers which has had under consideration since Friday proposals for settlement made by Secretary Davis and Admiral Benson of the shipping board will today offer counter proposals—it is learned. According to Healy the men are not ready to accept fully the proposals laid down last week.

EXCURSION BOAT IS TOTAL LOSS FROM BAD FIRE

Point Pleasant, W. Va., May 9.—In less than an hour after first of mysterious origin broke out aft in the excursion steamer "City of Charleston" the boat was a total loss and sunk at the Gallipolis wharf Sunday night. A pump boat owned by the Hickey Transportation Company of Cincinnati caught fire from the City of Charleston and was also destroyed, sinking with the excursion boat.

The "City of Charleston" was valued at $30,000 and was owned by the Kenawha and Ohio Transportation company of Charleston. The pump boat was valued at $5,000.

Efforts of the fire department at Gallipolis to save the two boats were futile, as the flames spread rapidly from the after deck of the excursion steamer to the pump boat alongside.

The City of Charleston docked at Gallipolis Saturday to have her boilers repaired in readiness for the excursion season. She has made regular trips out of Charleston.

No one was on board the steamer or pump boat at the time the fire started. No explanation of the origin of the flames was given by river officials.

INNOCENT HAT CAUSES RIOT AS COW RUNS WILD

Cincinnati, May 9.—The orange hat of Miss Betty Gibbs apparently did not please the eyes of a stray cow yesterday. The cow followed. It dashed against a soda fountain, wrecked it, routed a dozen diners smashed tables and dishes and ended by being shot and killed by a policeman. Miss Gibbs was knocked down but uninjured.

REPUBLICANS ARE ASSURED OF VICTORY IN IRISH ELECTION

Elected Members Will Refuse To Take Seats It Is Predicted.

Dublin, May 9.—The republicans are assured of an easy victory in the forthcoming election of members of the proposed parliament of southern Ireland and it was estimated today that the Sinn Fein candidates would be successful in 124 of the 128 of the election districts. According to present plans, however, the republicans who are elected will refuse to take their seats which would make it impossible for the parliament to be formally constituted.

Nominations to the southern and northern parliaments—the former to be established in Dublin and the latter in Belfast—will be made Friday. The Sinn Fein—a northern Ireland have decided to contest every seat but in southern Ireland it is unlikely that the Unionists will oppose the republican candidates in any district except that embracing Dublin university.

As a protest against the partition, act—the home rule law under which the two parliaments were created—the Irish laborites decided not to put up any candidates. It is reported reliably that the nationalists will stand aside to give the Sinn Feiners a clear walkover.

"It is expected that work on the new high school for the city of Xenia will be started early in June," was the statement made by Superintendent of Schools C. A. Waltz, Monday morning. "People who have seen the plans for the proposed Central High school are highly enthusiastic and speak well of them."

"Especially receiving high mention is the department to be devoted to vocational agriculture. This course will include instruction in every phase of farm life, including the repair of farm machinery, the construction of farm tractors, treating of milk, and other dairy work, poultry raising, bee culture, spraying of orchards, animal husbandry, and every other line of farm work."

The farm machinery department will occupy the whole western side of the new building, and will be complete in every detail, Mr. Waltz went on to say. In connection with the agricultural work, a course on farm carpentry will be included, which will be as complete as possible.

Special attention, he said, is being given the farm home economics course for girls that will be conducted in connection with the agricultural instruction for boys.

The department of Commerce that is being planned as a part of the proposed school schedule, will occupy a large portion of the second floor of the building and will include all forms of modern business methods, which will afford any pupil taking the course sufficient instruction to enable them to enter any line of commercial work at once, upon completing the course.

Many of the present year's graduates from Central High school, have secured good positions, through the course of instruction given them in the high school, said Mr. Waltz.

The present commercial course in the high school is receiving recognition from many of the surrounding cities, which realize the paramount value of the course, according to Supt. Waltz.

Superintendent Waltz is announcing that effort is being made to secure the services of a Smith-Hughes instructor, for work in the agricultural and home economics department of the new High School.

COUNCIL TAKES UP QUESTION OF STRIFE IN UPPER SILESIA

Poles Urged To Put Down Trouble In Country.

Paris, May 9.—The council of ambassadors took up the Upper Silesian strife today and made formal request to Poland to use all possible measures to calm the Polish population in Upper Silesia. A communication was sent to the allied commission in Upper Silesia asking it to issue a formal statement to the Polish people denying that any formal decision has been taken upon the partition of Upper Silesia as a result of the recent plebescite.

American participated in the meeting of the ambassadorial council, Ambassador Hugh Wallace acting as unofficial observer for the Washington government.

After the meeting it was learned that Great Britain had proposed that those parts of Upper Silesia which are preponderantly German and Polish be awarded immediately to Germany and Poland. The British representative argued that this would permit the concentration of allied troops in the disputed territory. France and Italy objected to this procedure and there was no decision.

DELAY ACTION ON KNOX PEACE PLAN

Washington, May 9.—Action on the Knox resolution declaring the state of war with Germany at an end, will be delayed by the house until conditions in Europe are more settled, Rep. Mondell stated today after a conference with President Harding. Mondell made it clear that he was stating his own opinion and not instructions given him by the president. He said that he believed that a majority of the members of the house felt that passage of the Knox resolution at this time would add to the complexity of the European situation.

Mondell discussed the general legislative situation with the president he said, but would not discuss the conference in detail.

GERMANY WITH TWO DAYS OF GRACE STILL WITHOUT CABINET TO REPLY TO ULTIMATUM

Herr Mayer-Kaufbeuren Summoned By Ebert Reported To Have Rejected Offer Of Forming New Cabinet.

Berlin, May 9.—With two more days—Tuesday and Wednesday—intervening in which Germany must accept or reject the allied ultimatum, the country was still without a cabinet today. Herr Mayer-Kaufbeuren, German ambassador to France, who was summoned here by President Ebert and who was asked to form a new ministry with himself.

Foreign minister spent all day Sunday conferring with political leaders. It was reported in the press that the ambassador met with such discouragement that he was inclined to reject the offer. He was still in Berlin today.

German officials allege that Great Britain and France have secretly utilized the Polish military coup in Upper Silesia to compel Germany to sign the ultimatum. An unofficial report was current in semi-official circles that the ultimatum has been conveyed to Germany that unless she accepts the allied ultimatum, the allies will be unable to do anything to force the Poles out of Upper Silesia.

WILL SUPPORT THIS COUNTRY ON YAP ISSUE

Statement Comes In Reply To Note Of Hughes.

HAD WIDE EFFECT

Attitude Of Allies Determined Future Step Of U. S.

Washington, May 9.—Great Britain has given informal assurances to the United States that she will support the American contentions with regard to the island of Yap and other mandated territories in which this government has set up claims of equality with other victors in the war with Germany, according to information prevailing today in diplomatic circles.

While the state department "officially" is still awaiting a British reply to Secretary Hughes' recent note, it is understood that the same informal conferences which resulted in the decision to renew American representation on allied councils resulted also in an understanding with Great Britain that the American claims in Yap will have the support of our erstwhile allies.

During the last two weeks Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador has held a number of informal conversations with the secretary of state. The subject matter of these conversations and the conclusions reached have not been disclosed but it is believed that such assurances were given Secretary Hughes that he felt no hesitancy of advocating the resumption of American participation in the European council.

Impression Goes Forth.

Prior to this conference with the British ambassador, the state department permitted the impression to go forth that American representatives could hardly sit on the supreme council until the allies had indicated their attitude on the Yap protest by replying to the note of Secretary Hughes.

After the conferences it was admitted that this government viewed the Yap question and the problem presented by German reparations as two separate and distinct questions, the consideration of which would in no way serve to embarrass the representatives of the United States in their dealings with the questions as members of these high commissions. It was stated that "no particular concern" was felt about Yap.

Secretary Hughes dispatched his now famous declaration of principles to the four great powers, Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy April 2, five weeks ago today. Since that time replies have been received from France and Italy. Japan and Great Britain so far as is known have not replied officially.

France First To Answer.
France was the first to answer. The French expressed a sympathetic appreciation of the position assumed by the United States and while not definitely committing herself to support the American case, her reply was strongly indicative of such support.

Italy, frankly and openly, aligned herself with the United States on the proposition. It was indicated that the Italian position was much the same as that of the United States—Italy having got nothing much in the distribution of former German possessions except the good wishes of the rest of the allies. The spoils were fairly well split up between Great Britain and France of the old German possessions in the Pacific.

When the Yap mandate is again taken up by the supreme council, Colonel George Harvey, the personal representative of the president of the United States will be on hand to press home the points raised in Secretary Hughes' note, the principal one of which is that the United States possesses equally to the winning of the war which made mandates possible and an equal contributor should be an equal sharer in the benefits to be derived from that victory.

Little doubt was felt here today in official and diplomatic circles that when the council reaches this discussion the United States will have the backing of England, France and Italy, leaving the Japanese standing alone in their contention for exclusive possession of the important little cable link.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

By Edith Moriarty

Stirred by the seriousness of the housing situation that confronts employed women and girls, the Young Women's Christian Association decided to work out a solution by helping women to own their own homes and apartments. Miss Blanche Geary was made head of the housing program.

Miss Geary is peculiarly fitted for this work, for she took charge of the Hotel Petrograd, opened under the Y. W. for the women workers in Paris and she also superintended the construction of the hostesses houses in the American camps. Already Miss Geary has sixty-six communities over the country co-operating with her.

Miss Geary offers two solutions for getting away from the problem of high rentals. One is the co-operative apartment plan where the women make initial investments for the building and then pay a small monthly rate, covering rent, light and heat. The other is the "cottage apartment," which is a suburban project. Here a plot of land is bought on the co-operative plan and small cottages built and after the erection is completed the enterprise need no longer be co-operative.

Miss Geary is now traveling from coast to coast in her work of organizing towns, large and small, to provide adequate housing for employed women. She says that co-operative city housing and suburban undertakings are but two phases of present progressive work of the association. Hotels are also being planned. The entire details of the plans are soon to be published in pamphlet form.

For the last six months the number of births exceeded the number of deaths in France. For some years previous this had not been the case. To encourage married people, who had to work to raise large families, M. Eugene Mathon, a textile manufacturer, devised a scheme. He pays to every head of a family three francs extra day or each child in the family under thirteen years of age, and 200 francs upon the birth of a child. The number of persons affected by the salaries, counting the mothers, wives,

WIDOW ASSURED OF LIFE HOME

Youngstown, O., May 7.—By handing Police Chief James Watkins $200 toward buying a lot, with a request that his name be withheld, a local business man has practically assured a new home for Mrs. Alexander R. Warren, widow of the late Patrolman Warren, who was brutally murdered this week. Members of the building trades council now on a strike had volunteered to donate their services in building a house, "from cellar to roof" providing some one would furnish a lot and material. A local lumber firm has agreed to give part of the material and others are expected to follow this lead. The police pension fund has paid $600 to the bereft family and over $300 more has been pledged. The widow also will receive a monthly pension of $40. The late patrolman had only been with the department since February.

WOMEN BOOTLEGGERS NABBED IN TROY

Troy, May 9.—At 8 o'clock Wednesday evening Officers Con Furrow, Frank Furrow and David Strauss arrested Edna Young, Helen Brown, Walter Brown and Charles McCabe all of Dayton on a charge of violating the Crabbie law.

The arrest was made in front of Theodore Torlina's cigar store on East Main street, where the two men occupied the rear seat of a Chevrolet, in which the trip from Dayton to Troy had been made.

When the officers surrounded the machine, the women at once opened several bottles of Lynchburg whiskey and commenced to pour the contents on the floor of the car, thru which it ran to the paved street and succeeded in getting rid of most of the liquor before they could be stopped.

Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs

By Mrs. George Elliott McCormick.

Next week Sidney will entertain the last of the eight district conferences of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs. There has been nothing bizarre about any of these conferences; they have been wholesome and patriotic, educational and entertaining. Standing out boldly in every conference was this federation pledge: "I pledge allegiance to my flag and the republic for which it stands—one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all." That pledge had a vitalizing effect at every district convention and it is expected to carry the same moving spirit on through to the state convention in Cincinnati next October.

Child welfare was the keynote of the Central district conference at Coshocton April 28 and 29, the hostess clubs and their respective presidents being, Chautauqua, Miss Della Leach; Coshocton Woman's, Mrs. C. D. Brooke; Historical, Mrs. W. H. Compton; Home Study, Mrs. Ada Gault; Junior Woman's, Mrs. Harvey Speckman; Music, Miss Stella Clark; New Century, Miss Mary Duncan; Olla Padrida, Mrs. Guy Clow; Roscoe Woman's, Mrs. Frank Martin, and W. C. T. U., Mrs. J. D. Stevenson.

In the ever helpful address of Mrs. W. H. Sharp, Columbus, state president, club women were asked to remember in their club work next year that officers of the state federation will be at the command of the various clubs throughout the state. "If you would like to have any of the state officers and chairmen with you at your meetings all you have to do is to request it," Mrs. Sharp said. State officers and chairmen want to come to you. Such visits will bring you into closer touch with the state organization and likewise bring the state organization into a better understanding of your needs and desires."

Mrs. R. U. Hastings, Lancaster, vice president of the Central District, proudly displayed the victory banner which was awarded her district at the Columbus state convention for securing the largest number of new clubs during the preceding year.

Mrs. Kent Hughes, Lima, member of the state board of education, strongly advocated vocational training in every town in Ohio. "Through vocational training boys and girls when they graduate from high school will be ready for some kind of a position," she declared. She asked that club women send for bulletin No. 37 "Survey of the Needs in the Field of Vocational Home Educational Education," federal board for vocational education, Washington.

A musicale was a charming feature of the convention. It was the joint offering of the district music clubs. Following this program National park views were screened by Julius Stone, Columbus, who was his own photographer in making a trip through the nation's "natural galleries." The afternoon of the closing day of the convention was devoted to a tour of a number of Coshocton's leading industries—pottery, American Art Works, Coshocton Glove company's plant, etc.

Feeble Minded Menace.

Dr. Josephine Peirce, Lima, chairman of the state federation's child welfare committee is seeking to awaken a deeper interest "in the terrible condition of affairs brought about by the feeble minded that are at liberty in the state." "Feeble mindedness is increasing at a rate which perils the entire race, she asserts because the feeble mind that are free are reproducing their kind three times as fast as normal parents. "We, as women and as a federation, must realize this greatest of perils to civilization," Dr. Peirce says in voicing an appeal for concerted action for adequate measures to take care of the "free feeble-minded in state institutions."

Pay Your Dues.
Mrs. R. E. Mygatt, Conneaut, state federation treasurer, warns clubs about the payment of dues. The books for this year will soon be closed.

AIRING THE SCALP

Does every woman recognize the great necessity of properly airing the scalp? I often wonder about that when I see the way in which women keep their hats on to such an unnecessary degree. How often does the average woman shake out her hair and air the scalp? I don't believe she does it more than once a day, when she takes her hair down at bed time.

Of course the scalp is aired to an extent every time the hair is brushed, a process that takes place anywhere from twice a day to half a dozen times, depending upon the docility of the hair! But this casual sort of airing is not enough.

We are getting into such good weather now, that sun and wind treatments can be given the scalp without any danger of colds in the head. If you possibly can, go outdoors in the sun, let the hair hang, and part it so the sunshine can reach the scalp. Part it first one place then another, so the warmth can penetrate to the very roots of the hair. It will feel wonderfully invigorating.

Let the sun get to the parts of the hair not usually exposed. That is, if you comb your hair back from the face, the outside part of the hair will normally have air and sun enough, inside it will be darker, oily, perhaps, and when the hair begins to turn gray, the inside part will be apt to turn first. So when you air the scalp and sun the hair, brush it in an unaccustomed fashion.

And even when you do not give it such an elaborate airing, shake the hair out morning and evening, run the fingers through it and give the scalp a quick massage.

Helen P.—If you send an addressed stamped envelope, I shall be pleased to mail you full directions on restoring your hair. You can remove the dandruff temporarily by rubbing the yolk of an egg into the scalp, before shampooing the head. Allow it plenty of time to come dry, before washing it out of the hair.

Anna—You can produce an auburn shade of hair by shampooing with henna. It is also a tonic. To one ounce of powdered Egyptian henna, add three ounces of powdered white soap. One tablespoonful is used to a pint of hot water. Lather the head with this and allow it to remain for 15 minutes, before shampooing.

Verna J.—Your skin will improve if you take a blood purifier, which at this season can be obtained through eating the spring salads, especially those made from dandelion.

YOUTHFUL NAILS

Youthful nails keep the hand young looking, and a young looking hand has much to do with the youthfulness of your appearance. You cannot seem to be in your twenties even with a wonderful face, if your hands are thin and the nails ragged and full of ridges.

In a way, the same rule that applies to keeping the hair young, applies to keeping the nails smooth. This is by means of nourishment and stimulation. You would soon die if you did not nourish your body, even if you used up no energy. Yet many women go year after year, taking energy out of the nails, and giving them nothing. I mean, they let the nails soak in hot water, fill them with strong, drying soap, change them from hot to cold by plunging them from hot water into cold water—and never think that they are absorbing the natural oils that nourish the nails, that they are literally starving them into premature old age.

Feed the nails oils, vegetable oils that they will absorb. Keep them as nice as possible by clearing away dead cuticle and by keeping them filed so they will not break.

And buff them, every day. This alone will do more than anything else to stimulate them, since the friction of the buffer will bring up the blood to the nails and under the nails, and will keep them pretty and pink. Buffing alone will not do away with ridges in every case, neither will constant massage and oil treatments. But these things help amazingly, as I know from personal experience. And in some cases, such treatments will do away with ridges.

A BEAUTIFUL VOICE

For some weeks lately I have been publishing short talks now and then on cultivating the voice. I want, first of all, to lay the foundations for a good voice. So we talked of the kind of voices, and we discussed deep breathing exercises that are intended to produce a better quality of tone.

To keep our language pure, and to keep our voices sweet from generation to generation, we must speak alike. Otherwise we break up into different dialects, and the language as a whole, suffers. Most of all, remember to pronounce each word separately and distinctly. Enunciation counts as well as pronunciation.

SOUTHERN GIRL WOULD REVIVE U. S. LOVE FOR FAMILY SILVER

Boston, May 7.—(Special)—Miss Marguerite Walker Jordan, a Virginia girl, is taking an active part in the revival of interest in family silver. She is lecturing about the country. There has been a tendency in this country to take up Japanese bronzes and the like, according to Miss Jordan, but she says they can never take the place of beautiful sterling silver for the basic love of this metal is in the American people today just as always.

In a recent lecture given by Miss Jordan, she said as she sketched the ancestry of our table utensils from the day when the knights of King Arthur sat about a round table upon which the first eatable to be placed was salt. "They had not forks in those days; even Queen Elizabeth was accustomed to lift to her mouth with dainty fingers the second joint of the turkey and gnaw it at her pleasure."

"A silversmith named John Mansfield was working in Charlestown, Mass., in 1634, and fourteen years before one Thomas Howard, a silversmith, came to Jamestown, Virginia, from 1650 to 1750 most excellent work was produced, doomed and globular teapots—or fat and thin, as they were often called—and tankards, beakers, cups, and always the salt cellars which still hold their place of prominence on the table."

"With the advent of Paul Revere in the latter 1700's there came a broadening of design. He often used scroll embellishments and sometimes birds. More kinds of spoons came along, too."

"The first American forks were made by John Noyes of Boston, who lived from 1674 to 1749, and are now

Miss Marguerite Walker Jordan, in the Boston museum. While New York, Philadelphia, Maryland and other sections produced good silver the center of the industry has always been in New England. Jabez Gorham was recorded as a silversmith in Providence in 1792 and John of the same

XENIA MAN GETS CITIZENSHIP PAPERS

SYDNEY M. BAILEY.

Sydney M. Bailey, 31, of Xenia, was recently admitted to United States citizenship, by Judge R. L. Gowdy, in Common Pleas court, following an examination conducted by E. J. Kennedy of Cincinnati, United States Naturalization Examiner.

Mr. Bailey, who was an Englishman, being born in London, England, and coming to this country 16 years ago, was the first Greene County soldier in the late war admitted to citizenship here under the provision which does not require ex-service men to go through the usual stringent examination given to candidates for naturalization.

The government believed that men who served with Uncle Sam during the war proved their right to citizenship, and in examining them, they are only asked a few general questions. Mr. Bailey served with the 34th Engineers overseas.

START CANVAS FOR FALL FESTIVAL SPACE TUESDAY MORNING

The Retail Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce will start canvassing for space for the proposed Fall Festival, Tuesday morning.

The committee members will meet at the Chamber of Commerce at nine o'clock Tuesday morning, and will then go out on the campaign through the business section. Whether the Fall Festival will be held here this year will be decided by the amount of booth space contracted.

The Chillicothe projectors of the Fall Festival ask for a guarantee of 1,500 feet of booth space, before they come here. They will then furnish all the arrangements, including the booths themselves, the decorations, the concessions and free shows, police protection, lighting, and advertising within a radius of 50 miles. They will also take charge of the program, arrange the parades and after the Festival is over, will see that the streets are cleaned of debris it is claimed.

It is pointed out that this proposition relieves the merchants of all responsibility with the exception of the original obligation they assume of taking booth space which will be used for advertising purposes during the week of the Festival, and will cost $2 a foot. The money thus obtained does not pay the projectors of the plan for their own expenses, which they endeavor to make up through the concessions.

HOME CADETS WIN OVER CEDARVILLE

The O. S. & S. O. Home Cadets defeated the Cedarville College base ball team at the Home Saturday afternoon in their second game of the season, by the score of 10-8.

AMERICAN LEGION TEAM LOSES FIRST GAME OF SEASON

Two runs behind, with the bases crowded, and no one out in the ninth inning of the struggle with Waynesville Sunday, the local American Legion team lost a chance to tie or win the game, when three easy outs followed in succession without a single runner getting home. Waynesville won 9-7.

The game was the initial season's conflict for the Legion athletes who showed good early season form. Shane, their star pitcher, had bad luck in the getaway and had to be jerked, which probably cost the locals their chances. Shane's arm got cold while riding to Waynesville on the truck and as a result he was in poor form, the Waynesville hitters touching him for a good lead before he could be removed.

Jones, who relieved him, pitched good ball when he was able to get the pellet under control but most of the time was wild, walking seven men during the 6 1-2 innings he pitched, although he retrieved that record with nine strike outs in the same period. The locals went into the eighth stanza with the score 7-1 in favor of Waynesville. Four hits were garnered by the Legionaires in that inning netting five runs, but a similar rally started in the ninth frame, was killed when three runners died on the bases.

Next week Manager Blackburn's Legion nine will play at Sabina leaving here at 11:30 o'clock. The batteries Sunday, Shane, Jones and Christopher for the locals and Smith, Osborne and Kerfils for Waynesville.

BETTER ROADS FOR COUNTIES IS TOPIC OF GROUP MEETING

Secretary F. J. Slackford of the Greene County Automobile club represented the club at the meeting of the representatives from counties included in District No. 7, of the Ohio Good Roads Federation, who met at the Springfield Chamber of Commerce, Saturday.

The delegates discussed ways and means for better roads and saw the Good Roads Council of Clark county in action, the members of the Council giving interesting reports of progress in Clark county, or making severe instructive criticism when necessary.

Senator J. P. Atwood of Franklin county, in his address told of legislation favoring good roads, that has been recently adopted by the state and national law making bodies. Particularly interesting was his explanation of the action of the federal government in voting bond issues to assist the state in building good post roads. A sum of 100 millions of dollars has been voted for two years for that purpose, which is to be apportioned among the states according to their population, their area and their number of post roads. From this fund, Ohio will receive $5,000,000 a year for two years.

Senator Atwood explained that although this money is to be spent only on post highways, that will benefit all roads, as counties themselves will not have to spend any money on those roads, and can thus devote their road funds to highways of lesser importance. G. F. Rudisill, director of the Ohio Good Roads Federation, and Charles L. Bauer, chairman of District No. 7, were among other speakers.

It was urged at the meeting that counties not having Good Roads Councils, organize them at once.

MOTHERS' DAY FITTINGLY OBSERVED IN XENIA SUNDAY IN PULPITS OF CITY

"Mother" was chosen as the fitting topic of many beautiful sermons in the churches of the city Sunday, and congregations in each of the churches paid tribute to mothers on that day.

Florist shops reported an exhaustion of supply on Saturday evening, the entire stocks being turned over to sons and daughters who purchased flowers for their mothers.

"Mother's Day" was observed with appropriate sermons both in the morning and evening by the Friends Church. The morning discourse was on the general lines of appreciation of what the self-sacrificing lives of mothers have meant in physical, intellectual and spiritual development.

In the evening helpful lessons were drawn from the lives of Hannah and Samuel, or how one mother through prayer and definite consecration trained her son until he became a prophet and a mighty man of God, whose influence reaches to the present day.

In each of the sermons the value of Christian motherhood was emphasized.

phasized the true value of mother in her ability to train the child along the right path being emphasized.

The spirit of Mother's Day was embodied in the statement of Rev. Charles P. Prouditt of the Second United Presbyterian church, "Mother's Day is utilized for the deliverance of beautiful thoughts on motherhood and the placing of halos on ever maternal brow."

"The Bible tells us a dramatic story of the crisis in the lives of ten girls. But back of the moment when success and defeat were achieved respectively were some formative days. Looming large in those days were some mothers."

"Mother's Day is usually utilized for the deliverance of beautiful thoughts on motherhood and the placing of halos on every maternal brow. Well and good when discriminatingly bestowed. But Mother's Day is a terrible tribunal for the mothers of foolish virgins. It impeaches every mother who is a partner in the moral and spiritual decline of her daughter."

"Girlhood that leaves God out of account is not infrequently traced back to motherhood that forgets God or compromises with the world. The Bible does not even credit a youth or virgin with sanity who has not found Christ. It was when the Prodigal 'came to himself' that he came to Jesus. The Magdalene had to be dispossessed of devils before she was accounted sane."

"Winsome womanhood is the fruitage of religiously supervised girlhood. And that mother is investing heavily in the stock of future happiness who encourages her girl to lean heavily on the Master. God comfort the mother whose daughter is found among the 'five foolish virgins' when the tests come. But heaven have mercy on that unmotherly mother who has only been the dam of a daughter and not a devout dame."

THE LIFE HISTORY OF ONE OF AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN
I received two elegant books as presents last Christmas—one point of their elegance for old eyes was their fine large print. One of these books is the "Americanization of Edward Bok"—he who was editor of the Ladies Home Journal for thirty years. We have already made a notice of it, wherein we highly complimented it.

The other one of these two books is "The Autobiography of Andrew Carnegie," and we can hardly speak too highly of it, for we suppose it will stand pre-eminent as one of the chief publications of the year 1920.

No ordinary man was Andrew Carnegie. In no fewer words could we epitomize this "strange, eventful life" than to use the language of the one who in the book arranged Mr. Carnegie's notes for publication, as follows: "Nothing stranger ever came out of the Arabian Nights than the story of this poor Scotch boy who came to America and step by step, through many trials and triumphs, became the great steel master, built up a colossal industry, amassed an enormous fortune, and then deliberately and systematically gave away the whole of it for the enlightenment and betterment of mankind."

Mrs. Carnegie (Louise Whitfield Carnegie) April 16, 1920, gives a brief preface to the book, showing the circumstances under which the notes were written. Mr. Carnegie had been enjoying good health for his play-time in Scotland each summer. Mrs. Carnegie says it was there that Mr. Carnegie did most of his writing, in a little bungalow. She says: "He delighted in going back to those early times, and as he wrote he lived them all over again. He was thus engaged in July, 1914, when the war clouds broke. Optimist as he always was, the disaster was too much for him. His heart was broken. A severe attack of influenza followed by pneumonia precipitated old age upon him."

Of his last days Mrs. Carnegie says: "Perhaps the most inspiring part of Mr. Carnegie's life was the way he bore the burden of old age. Always patient, considerate, cheerful, grateful for any little pleasure or service, never thinking of himself, but always of the dawning of the better day, his spirit ever shone brighter and brighter until he was not, for God took him."

Now for some notes from the book: In the year 1900, when Mr. Carnegie sold out the steel works, their profits had amounted to forty millions of dollars per year and he concluded he had enough. Their successors, the U. S. Steel Corporation, one year netted sixty millions. In selling out Mr. Carnegie declined to take anything for the common stock. He says, "had I done so, it would have given me just about a hundred million more of five per cent bonds." His statement about this was verified by Charles M. Schwab and J. P. Morgan.

Xenia and Greene County stand indebted to Mr. Carnegie for the Xenia Library building, and I don't know how many others. Do you know how many, in all, library buildings Mr. Carnegie gave? He gave to various towns and cities over twenty-eight hundred library buildings at a cost of over sixty millions of dollars. He said the inspiration for this came from the benefit he had received from the kindness of a gentleman who had given him the use of his library when a youth. Think of the millions of people who are being benefitted by these 2,800 libraries all over the United States.

Mr. Carnegie always spoke of his Hero Foundation as one in which his whole heart was concerned. This had been inspired by the sad death of a volunteer heroic leader who had incited many to help in rescuing miners from a coal pit. Hence came the five million Hero Fund to reward heroes, or to support the families of heroes who perished in the effort to serve or save their fellows. Today we have in America 1,430 hero pensions or their families on the list as recipients from this fund. How grand. No wonder it was a matter of great satisfaction to Mr. Carnegie.

The "Carnegie Endowment for the Advancement of Learning" was the fourth important gift by this wonderful man. He says: "Of all professions, that of Teaching is probably the most unfairly, yet the most meanly paid, though it should rank with the highest. Many of these beneficiaries and their widows have written me most affecting letters. These I can never destroy, for if I ever have a fit of melancholy, I know the cure lies in the reading of these letters."

Thus we might go on quoting from this wonderful book, for it is an inspiration to do so, but we must not tire our readers. If any one of them happens to have a $5 bill that he wants to put to a use that will give him great pleasure let him order the book for his own library.

Of course many critics have said and will say of Mr. Carnegie's benevolences: "Yes, it is very easy to give away money if you have it, and especially if you have more than you want," but the answer is "true enough but see how many rich persons do not do so," hence the great credit to those whose hearts are so touched by the wants of their fellow beings that they are glad to be beneficiaries. To their credit be it said. And when a rich person dies leaving nothing in this line, we are apt to say "what a pity," if nothing stronger.

GETTING MAD AT HER BECAUSE SHE DOESN'T GIVE AS MUCH MILK AS SHE DID TWO YEARS AGO ISN'T GOING TO HELP THE SUPPLY ANY

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

The commencement exercises of Sugarcreek township high school took place last night in the town hall of Bellbrook and proved a very nice affair. There were four graduates.

This is a big day for the town of Osborn, by reason of the sale of fine stock being held by C. L. Gerlaugh about 2 miles from that town. The sales have proven very successful and attract buyers from almost every state in the union, and the sale today is no exception.

The S. of V. Band has about concluded to give a concert in the opera house in the early part of June. The one given last year was highly successful and the boys are receiving numerous requests to give another.

A new addition is being added to the city of Springfield by the name of Melrose. The lots are being laid out and range in prices from $100 to $250, according to the location. Springfield has some very pretty additions.

The heavy down pour of rain which came this morning will be of inestimable benefit to the farmers and will send the vegetables of all kinds shooting forward at a rapid rate.

Is It Yours?

THIS IS THE BIRTHDAY OF CHARLES H. CRAMP May 9th, 1828.

One man who felt the romance of the sea sufficiently strongly to make it his life career was Charles H. Cramp, who was born in Philadelphia on May 9, 1828.

He was the son of the founder of a shipbuilding company in that city. He was the oldest of 11 children. In spite of the family's prosperity, he was not given anything more than a high school education. As soon as he had finished this he was put to work in his father's shipyard.

But he possessed enormous ambition. He considered his school education only the beginning. He immediately began studying foreign languages, and while he was working took up naval architecture on the side.

His age was a remarkable shipbuilding period. When he began they were building only wooden vessels. Iron-clad followed these, and finally steel vessels replaced them. Cramp built vessels that sailed with the wind, and finally vessels containing the most powerful engines ever known.

He branched out into warships, and among others built the "New Ironside" and the "Chattanooga," famous in their day for the navy. His shipbuilding yard grew to be the greatest naval arsenal in the Western hemisphere. He thought that the future greatness of America lay in her merchant marine, and he spent his entire life writing and lecturing to convert people to his belief. He never gave up studying, even when he was quite an old man.

TWO SISTERS GET HELP

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it did for Them

Hagerstown, Md.—"I was overworked and my monthly periods stopped. My body was swollen and I often had pains so I had to lie down. I was treated by a physician, but he did not seem to help me at all. My sister had taken your medicine with great results so I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am able to work and feel like working. I have been recommending your medicine to my friends, and you are welcome to use my testimonial for I can never praise your medicine enough for what it has done for me."—RHODA E. CARBAUGH, R. R. 1, Hagerstown, Md.

Women will tax their powers of endurance to the limit before giving up, and it is then some womanly ailments develop and they have to give up entirely. When a woman suffers from such symptoms as irregularities, headaches, backaches, bearing-down pains, inflammation, nervousness and "the blues," it is well for her to profit by Mrs. Carbaugh's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has restored multitudes of women suffering from just such ailments.

WHEN THEY BEGIN TO ADVERTISE

100% Right
Good Will
Men To-day
The Other Two
A Swift Moving Age

AN EDITORIAL TO ADVERTISERS

Will Advertising produce good will? Can good will be built by Advertising? And just what is "Good Will?"

These are questions which the experienced advertising man frequently encounters.

I shall try to answer them. To begin at the real beginning, let us try to define "Good Will." It is a thing not to be lightly considered. Let us go back to its first use when there rang out that glorious message—"Peace on earth Good Will to Men."

Here is a suggestion of faith and confidence; of sincere desire for the right. Good Will enjoyed by a man or a corporation—or exemplified in the public estimation of a product—simply means a liking for and belief and confidence in that man, company or thing.

Good Will is a monument and it is built a stone at a time. It is composed of many little things that gradually have taken hold of the public mind. In these constituents are Integrity—Honesty—Reliability—Truth in Advertising—Truth in all statements relative to product and methods.

To build such a monument a wide knowledge of the product and its uses is necessary because good will is valuable only in comparison to its worth as well as depth. A deep and lasting regard for a small enterprise is worth having but it can never bring very large returns until that enterprise has extended its will into wider fields.

Many concerns have built up good will into wider fields. Years of reliable dealings, integrity, prompt payment of bills to others, definite acceptance of obligations, strict adherence to the spirit and the letter of promises made.

To make a good article this year and allow it to deteriorate next will never build good will. To observe fair dealing ten months of the year and then slide into questionable practice the other two will never build good will.

Good will must be one hundred per cent right or it does not exist. While differences of opinion may arise, these can readily be adjusted but where ever reason exists for doubting the integrity, honor, sincerity or reliability of a firm, their good will is a very questionable asset.

set. Given the right fundamentals, advertising simply puts into the now the good will that old fashioned methods put into the future.

Advertising cannot supply good will unless the good will elements are already there. It cannot make up for lies, misrepresentations, insincerity, dodging of obligations, varying quality of product, or any of the other things that destroy the continuity of good will building. It anything, advertising will down good will for an unreliable firm or product, because it puts it the more quickly to the broad test.

Advertising makes known to more people more quickly the reasons why a corporation, an individual or a product should have entire public confidence. Furthermore it emphasizes the good points, makes them more attractive and understandable.

It is all right to talk about the future but we are living in a swift-moving age. Men today like to cash in on their efforts and to see some results for their honest, untiring toil.

The fact that many such men employ advertising makes it treble difficult for the old-fashioned plodders no matter how meritorious their methods and goods, to arrive at the stage where good will is a monument to their life rather than their death.

Plan right, build right, advertise and enjoy the blessing of Good Will while you can see its beauties in the flesh.

Practical Business Talks

LAYING HEN LAST TO GET AX.

A laying hen is the last to get the ax. This bit of current humor states an evident truth in connection with employment.

When forces are reduced the most productive workers are retained whenever possible. The untrained and unproductive are the first to get the ax.

There are times when it requires a high degree of executive skill to hold an organization intact in the face of adverse business conditions.

Many companies have been unable to do it. If your employer has kept you and your associates on the payroll during the readjustment period through which we have passed you owe him more loyalty and co-operation than ever before. Isn't this true?

If you were numbered among those who were unemployed, you owe it to yourself to secure more and better training so that when another slack period comes you will be like the laying hen—too valuable to get the ax.

To look after your own interests is the same thing as looking after your employer's interests. Shakespeare said: "To thine own self be true; and it must follow, as the night the day, Thou canst not then be false to any man."

The employer's task—the manager's job—is not an easy one. If you are working for a competent executive—one who steers well in stormy weather—one who keeps his crew intact and the boat steady—then you should loyally back him up in everything he wants to do and give him 100 per cent in enthusiasm, energy and service. For without his keen, wise guiding hand, there might be no job for you, nor, in fact any business to guide.

IN THE GLOAMING.

The gray of evening descends, my little trip will soon be through; the thought to me no terror lends as my calm journey I pursue, for I have done my best, my friends, and more than that no man can do. My best was but a trifling thing, I must admit, now that I'm old; I never could rear up and swing the harp that Milton used to hold; it wasn't in my soul to spring such music as from Byron rolled. But I have toiled away with zest, my strains the highest that I knew, and now the sun is in the west, and skies grow dark that late were blue, I know that I have done my best, and more than that no man can do. Old age is tranquil and serene if one can take a glance behind survey the rocky roads he's seen, the struggle and the weary grind, and know his wreath, however mean, was still the best one he could find. The gods do not their gifts bestow in equal measure to the flock; one man is born to cop the dough, the next must wait for ghosts to walk; one man is built to be a beau, his neighbor is a homely crook. But when it's time to go to rest, the evening come, the errands run, the gifts and talents we possessed are measured by the fruits they've won; unless we've tried to do our best we've failed, however much we've done.

"I certainly can recommend Tanlac to any one suffering from the after effects of the 'flu' for it is truly wonderful how it has restored my health and built me up," said Earl F. Miller, 1134 Murray Ave., Akron, Ohio, well-known employee of the Goodyear Rubber Co.

with me, and I suffered a great deal from gas and bloating in my stomach. I was so nervous that the least unusual noise almost drove me wild, and I scarcely ever slept any at night. Mornings I felt as tired and worn out as when I went to bed, and I didn't seem to be regaining my strength and weight like I should.

"But it wasn't long after I commenced taking Tanlac until I began to feel better, my appetite improved and I began to eat with more satisfaction. I have just finished my third bottle and feel fine for the first time since I had the 'flu.' My digestion is good, I sleep like a log, have gained twelve pounds in weight and am as strong as I ever was. Tanlac is certainly the right medicine for a person who suffers as I did."

FORMER XENIAN IS APPOINTED AKRON POSTMASTER, SAID

C. Nelson Sparks, former Xenian, has been appointed postmaster at Akron, succeeding Kilroy P. Aldrich postoffice inspector, who has been acting postmaster at Akron since the resignation of A. Ross Read, two years ago.

Mr. Sparks has been safety director of Akron for some time and according to Akron papers has made "a capable, efficient safety director." Under his direction, it is said, the department has been brought up to a high standard of efficiency, the police traffic department has been reorganized, new traffic and parking ordinances added and the personnel increased. It is said he sponsored the detective department, drafted the soft drink license as a means of curbing the illicit sale of intoxicating liquor and many other rules and regulations for the curbing of vice. During the war, while rubber factories were paying fabulous wages, it was almost impossible to keep mail carriers and clerks in Akron and as a result, the office was jammed with incoming mail that could not be distributed. After the resignation of Postmaster Read, no one wanted the job, and the government had to send Aldrich, an office inspector to Akron as permanent postmaster.

The chorus was introduced by John W. Riley, who made a few remarks concerning the fine points of the body. The members of the chorus travel at their own expense, in their own machines, giving concerts in different churches each Sunday.

In the afternoon the chorus gave a concert at the O. S. and S. O. Home, which was well received.

"The Influence of a Mother," in connection with the Mother's Day services that were held in the Xenia Churches was chosen by Rev. Dr. G. A. Scott as his text for one of the most forceful sermons delivered in the city churches.

Y. S. ATHLETICS ON SHORT END OF SCORE

The Yellow Springs Athletics were defeated by the Marvin Athletics of Urbana at Urbana, Sunday, by the score of 5-2.

Although Day, of the Yellow Springs nine was in good form, the Urbana athletes touched him for hits when they meant runs, and they made their bingles count in every case. Egan of the Marvin Athletics garnered a home run off on Day, sending a run home ahead of him.

"Smoky Joe" Brown, pitched for the Marvin Athletics and although the Yellow Springs hitters got him in deep water several times, he managed to keep out of serious danger. Bales, first baseman for the Yellow Springs nine, contributed two two-baggers to the attack of his team.

TWO ARE ARRESTED FOR TIRE STEALING

Dene Pyle, 33, and Homer Wood, 27, both of Wilmington, were placed under arrest by Officer David Mangan Sunday night, after they had confessed to taking a tire from the wrecked machine belonging to John Brannen of Home avenue, when it was abandoned on the Wilmington pike, the week before last.

The car was smashed up when it struck the Caesar creek bridge, and before morning all the tires and other removable accessories had been taken from it. Pyle and Wood, however, told police that they took only one tire, which they brought back with them, saving that they had only borrowed it.

The men were turned over to the sheriff, as the case comes under his jurisdiction, and he is investigating several other men, implicated in the theft by the two under arrest.

The Brannen car was wrecked beyond repair in the accident and Mr. Brannen is still confined in the McClellan hospital due to injuries he sustained.

MOST RAILROAD MEN FAVOR QUICK TIME PLAN, IT IS SAID

That the majority of railroad men favor day light saving, is shown by the immediate adoption of that time in most of the offices of the Pennsylvania System here.

Although trains are operating on old or standard time this does not affect the scheduler of office employees who work in tricks, and they have practically all changed to conform with the new time.

In order to bring about the change a vote was taken in the different departments, which showed that the majority favored the adoption of the new time. Departments which have changed o the daylight saving plan of time, are the car department, the round house and the freight house.

"It is being said that the railroad men do not want daylight saving time," said one of the office employees today, "but the vote we took shows that the majority of them favor it. There are only a few objecting to it."

ALFRED HAINES IS LAID TO REST

A large cortege of friends and relatives gathered for the funeral services of Alfred Haines, which were held at the New Hope church, Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The services were conducted by the Rev. Jennie Carey, assisted by the Rev. Ralph Thornburg. A quartette consisting of R. O. Copsey, Charles Lewis, Raymond Middleton and Emory Oglesbee, sang three selections. Burial was made in Woodland Cemetery, the pall bearers being Fred Hough, Elbert Bales, Harold and Paul Ary, O. C. Colvin and Horace Hurley.

Holding Your Club.

Broadly speaking a golfer should grip his club in the most comfortable way as long as the general idea of the finger grip is kept—little details are individual. The thumbs must be a little to the side of the shaft.

At first thumb of the left hand, lying on the right hand side of the shaft, feels strange rubbing against the right palm, but one soon gets accustomed to it. Interlocking and overlapping is wise for many players because the farther the hands are apart the more likely they are to work against each other. I do not use either grip as my present method seems adapted to me.

My grip is just the plain finger grip—that is I have all fingers on the shaft. I try always to be conscious of a sense of touch, a certain feeling that comes only through the tips of one's fingers.

Perhaps a little history of my own struggle with the problem of the proper grip may prove instructive, for my own method evolved gradually from the palm to the finger grip.

When I first began to play to palmed the club with my thumbs over and around the shaft. It is only fair to add that I played rather successfully with this grip, but I was a boy then and had a great deal of time for practice.

One day, the club professional, a splendid iron player, suggested that I put my thumbs down the shaft for iron shots. This act of itself put the fingers, and for the first time the relation of the touch sense to golf was revealed to me. I threw away the labor of years and began to cultivate the new method.

Thereafter my iron shots became the best part of my game. My thumbs straight down the shaft, however, checked my swing whenever it passed the halfway mark and made it impossible to play a full shot with that grip. This resulted in my playing the palm grip for the full shots and the finger grip for the half. This was fairly satisfactory, but it took altogether too much time to keep the two grips in working order. I felt it even then while I was in school and had the necessary time.

By the time this appears in print I expect to be in England on my way to play in the British Championships. Curiously enough it was just one decade ago—in 1911—when I made my first trip to Europe. I had the good fortune to play with Harry Vardon. He noticed my differing grips and naturally asked why I did not use the same grip for both shots. I told him that the thumbs checked the full swing on the stroke. He said: "Put your thumbs a little to one side of the shaft."

It was an easy thing and solved my problem in theory, but the trails of practice remained. Like all golfers I hated to bear the penalties of change but a little experience hastened by determination to try a new method. In this instance I began a tee shot with the fingers, but palmed it when I reached the ball, and this transition spelled disaster. I resolved then and there to have but one grip. I passed through a suffering period in pursuit of this idea and I think I developed every golfing fault in the world. I kept steadily at it, however, and came out of that season of discouragement with the idea of wooden-club placement.

From that time I began to "feel" the wooden clubs as I did the iron and my game was both simplified and improved.

Andrew Price, colored, of Clay Street, Springfield, has been identified by J. M. Pope, proprietor of a grocery at 1551 Mound Street and C. G. Durr of 802 N. Rice Street, Springfield as one of the men who participated in the hold-ups Saturday night and in which Pope and Durr were victims.

Price was arrested late Saturday night.

Price was identified Sunday by John Myers and William Woodman, both of Springfield, as one of the two colored men who held them up on the night of December 4, last.

Springfield police expressed the belief Sunday that Price was connected with other hold-ups staged in Springfield last winter.

Richard Gibbons, colored, was arrested Sunday morning in connection with the robbery of Pope and Durr, but could not be identified and is being held on suspicion.

LOCAL MEN TAKEN FOR BANK ROBBERS BY SPRINGFIELD COP

Local employees of the Western and Southern Life Insurance Company are responsible for the statement that Springfield sleuths are an over-ambitious lot.

They also are willing to warn law-breakers from entering the Clark county metropolis following a vision of jail doors and barred windows which confronted them Saturday morning.

In Springfield to attend the District Convention of their Company, the men were accosted by a city gum shoe who bade them keep moving. One of the local men went into the First National Bank, in the Bushnell building, in front of which they had been standing, and asked the president the reason for the inhospitable treatment.

It was learned then, that the International Harvester Company had warned the bank of possibilities of pay-roll robbers being prevalent and the six local men had attracted the attention of the officers. They were quick to apprise the Springfield authorities of the reason for their presence in front of the bank as the Western Southern offices are in the same building.

Local men who attended the meeting are Clarence Jeffries, Louis Cios, J. B. Little, Edward Heathers, E. A. Jeffries and Albert Gregory.

TROY MAN INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

Troy, May 9.—Leo Bausman of Troy was indicted on the charge of attempting to rob the mails by the grand jury of the United States district court in Dayton, when that body reported at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

It is alleged that about 5 o'clock on the morning of February 4, Bausman drove up in his Ford sedan to a point in the city of Dayton at the rear of the Miami Union Publishing company's plant, where he is said to have pulled a gun on Leonard Hodge, better known as "Seth" and employed in the postoffice to the railroad and two sacks were thrown into Bausman's car.

As Bausman was about to drive away he was ordered to halt by officers who had been tipped and had concealed themselves nearby and one or more shots were fired by the latter. Bausman at once surrendered and was taken into custody.

Bausman was taken to the Montgomery county jail but later was released on $10,000 bond.

BREAKS IN DAM LOWER WATER LEVEL

Washington C. H., May 9.—About 6:30 Wednesday morning the storage dam which retains a large reservoir of water near the pumping station, broke in several sections and part of it collapsed, allowing the pent up water to escape and lowering the level of the big reservoir some 20 to 30 inches within a few hours time.

The dam, constructed about 150 yards below the pumping station was built several years ago but the concrete proved inadequate, defects appearing with the result that part of it finally gave way and it will be necessary to rebuild the entire dam or at least a large portion of it.

There will be no shortage of water however as a result of the break, the dam retaining the water chiefly for the very dry season of the year.

It is expected the dam will be rebuilt before the dry period comes.

POLICE CONFISCATE LIQUOR IN RAID AT SPRINGFIELD

Frank Boganauer and Cora Katerine of Springfield, were arrested and a 15 gallon still, three barrels of mash, and 1 1/2 gallons of corn whiskey were confiscated in a raid by Springfield police on the residence of Cora Katerine, on Sunday evening. Police say the still was found in operation when the raid was made.

Cora Katerine is held on a charge of manufacturing liquor and Boganauer is held on a charge of illegally possessing liquor. The woman, police say admitted to them that she had been manufacturing liquor for several months. Boganauer was a boarder at her residence.

Both were found in the house at the time of the raid and were lodged in the county jail.

BECAME FAMOUS TENOR OVER NIGHT

New York, May 7.—A leap from obscurity to fame within two hours is the experience which today filled with joy the heart of Gaetano Tommasini, an Italian tenor. The regular tenor of the Metropolitan opera company was ill. "Aida" was to be sung. All was despair. A happy thought. Some one remembered Tommasini, who has been living in obscurity since the ill-fated Lexington Opera House season closed. Taxi called. Tommasini found eating spaghetti in obscure restaurant. Filled role. Audience thrilled. Wild cheers. Bravo. Everybody happy.

OLD LETTER REGARDING ANTIOCH COLLEGE OFFERS COMPARISON WITH PRESENT PLANS

An interesting personal account of the activities of Antioch College, of Yellow Springs, during the days of its beginning is contained in a letter once received by W. W. V. Buchanan, principal of the Piqua Primary School more than 60 years ago, and now in the possession of John A. Rayner of Piqua.

The letter was written May 30, 1853, when Antioch was being started. The letter says in part: "Antioch is going up as fast as can be expected. One dormitory is about done—the main building is getting on the roof and lathing and more than one hundred hands at work—and indeed there is a vast amount of work to be done in the four months intervening between this and the first of next October. The building is a vast massive pile, substantial in every particular, and a perfect model of Architecture. Great as may have been your conceptions of its magnitude it will far out-reach your most vivid anticipations. I will send you the Annual Announcement of the college."

The Revolt of Vera Sanderson

By JANE PHELPS.

A Happy Week for Vera.

Chapter 36.
Keith had gone. It seemed strange to be away from him yet the quiet peacefulness of the old home was very grateful to me. I had written my bridge teacher that I would resume my lessons when I returned, and had not dreamed of getting any practice while with my mother-in-law. But to my surprise she was a very good player, and we had several afternoon games with friends of hers who were fully as expert as the women at the club.

They made so much of me both father and mother, as they asked me to call them, that I felt like a spoiled child. I wore mother's delicate lingerie, and trailed around in her house gowns to father's delight.

"Showed my good taste, didn't I Vera, when I married a woman who has a girl's figure at 70?"

"Indeed you did show good taste!" I replied while mother broke in: "Better than I did, eh, Vera?"

The charming way in which they joked with and teased each other made me wish that my own father and mother might have led the same sort of life. But my people were always troubled about making ends meet, while Keith's parents had no financial worries.

Every morning I rode to the factory with father, and then mother and I would go to market. She was old fashioned in that, she still did her own marketing.

"I take things home in the car and then I know I have what I select," she told me. "I know it is quite the thing to market by telephone, but I do not approve of it. It is a temptation to dishonest tradesmen to short weigh, to substitute a poor article for a good one. In the old days every housewife carried her market basket and I believe it would be better if the young generation would do the same."

"I think it is fun to go to the markets."

"It gets to be a task like everything else. But it is a great economy, although not many young people will admit it."

In the evening I often played checkers with father. He was an expert at it, and laughed merrily at the sort of game I played.

"Where in the world did Margaret get her disagreeable disposition?" I asked myself as I further observed the harmonious old couple.

To bed by 10 o'clock was their rule, and it did me lots of good. At home we were inclined to be what Keith called "night owls," and I often felt dragged and tired in the morning. But here I was glad to jump from the bed the moment called. And such breakfasts as I ate! It would have scandalized Margaret.

I couldn't begin to tell how happy I was all that long week with my husband's parents. I missed him naturally. But I also missed the carping atmosphere the sarcasm, that met me everywhere I turned because of Margaret's dislike and resentment of me.

I had been with them just a week when Keith came after me.

"Have you missed me?" I asked as I clung to him.

"Of course I have! Although Margaret has kept me pretty busy."

"How—what way?"

"Oh, she has given two dinner parties! And we have been out every night this week."

"Where?"

"Mrs. Deland's, Mrs. Hunter's, and two nights to the theater."

"Just you and Margaret?"

"No indeed! Quite a gay party. Mrs. DeLisle gave a box party one evening, and Mrs. Grant also gave a theater party. By the way, she seemed quite disappointed when she found you were away. I believe she would have called it off until your return had she not asked the others before she knew it."

Although Keith had talked quite frankly, I was not as happy as I had been. Margaret had talked of these two dinners and Keith had promised me a new gown. I couldn't help wondering if she had purposely given them while I was absent. Surely she did not as a rule get up her dinners so hurriedly.

Then, too, Mrs. DeLisle had entertained Keith.

I longed to ask if the handsome widow had been to all the affairs he had attended while I was away, but hesitated to show my jealousy. I had elected to remain with his parents, what happened was my fault—that is if he was without me at places where he met her.

Then and there I determined never to leave him again, not until we were old anyway.
